Agenda

12:00-12:10	Welcome and announcements – Frangiska Lewis
12:10 – 1:10	Session 1: Service as action now more than ever: The purpose and goals of service as action in the MYP. Facilitators: Nonye Oladimeji, Ph.D. Global and comparative education - Glasgow Middle School IBMYP Coordinator/Advanced Academic specialist and Kip Malinosky, Thomas Jefferson Middle School, IB MYP Coordinator Description: Teachers are responsible through the content to teach students how to make ethical decisions. What is the role of service as action in teaching students to apply their content knowledge to make ethical decisions such as social issues: justice, equity, dignity of life, and individual rights? We will share ideas and plans on how to implement service as action in our schools. We will look at the written curriculum for ideas for how to design units that allow students to act based on their learning. We will share examples from every subject area and examples of high-quality student reflections on service. We will also explore using the UN Global Sustainable Development Goals as a basis for service ideas.
1:15 – 2:15	Session 2: Transitioning to the 2020 Programme Standards and Practices Facilitators: Laura Lane, IB World Schools Manager, Danielle Danz. IBMYP Coordinator at Key Middle School in Fairfax County VA, Stephanie Bilmoria, IBMYP Coordinator at Lewis HS in Fairfax County Description: Whether undergoing evaluation now or four years from now, all authorized IB World Schools should begin thinking about the transition to the 2020 Programme Standards and Practices (PSP) and the revised evaluation process. This session will focus on schools as learning organizations. We will review the revised evaluation process elements and hear from the MYP coordinators at Lewis High School and Key Middle School in Fairfax County, who are participating in the pilot for the process. There will be time at the end for Q&A with the panel
